

Speak and Listen

Text, verse 2, from Joel Miller

Mary Grigolia

♩ = 80

Women: As we speak now will you lis - ten? — Oh this rage we have is real. We are Men: If you speak to me I'll lis - ten. — Oh this lone - li - ness cuts deep. We are All sing: It lives deep with - in each wo - man, - ev - 'ry child, - ev - 'ry man. In our an - gry, gen - tle wo - men, - and these wounds we have must heal. We will men in life's short mis - sion, - must the loss we suf - fer sleep? Must we dreams and in our vi - sions, - it will guide us by the hand. We will speak with new found voi - ces, — from our hearts we trust our rage. As we speak with hard cold voi - ces, — not from hearts of love and pain? If you speak and we will lis - ten, - through our joys and through our tears, we will speak now will you lis - ten? - It's the chal - lenge of our age.

speak to me, I'll lis - ten; - and — know our life's new name.
dream and we'll en - vi - sion - a new world not based on fear.